

Edward T. Boyle Center

SEPTEMBER 2023

As I sit looking out of my office window I am mesmerized by the beauty of the bright blue sky with the contrast of the wispy white clouds surrounding the church steeple. I am blessed with a fabulous view, however I want to be out there, not in here. I want to feel the sunshine, hear the birds, touch the grass beneath my feet and breathe the fresh air. This season of life is good and I am so grateful for where I am, right now. I don't know how long it will last, because as in life, seasons change. Soon the leaves will change and fall from the trees and another summer will have past, but autumn will be upon us.

Change is not easy, you all know that and many of us do not welcome it. With that being said, I want you all to do me a huge favor—someone will be starting a new position as I leave the Boyle Center and it will be a change for them as well. I don't know who that person will be, but I do know that for them to be successful you have to give them a chance. Please be kind above all else. I had to find my way and learn many things about the expectations of this job as a service coordinator before I could do it well. I know that he/or she will do things differently but that doesn't mean it is wrong.

It is my hope that the person who comes into this position will come to know each of you and be able to provide you with the resources and services that you need. This will take time so please have patience.

I truly will miss so many faces and chats on a daily basis, but I will not disappear. I will be back from time to time to visit, especially with some furry friends from Ponies for Purpose. I don't know where this adventure is taking me, only that I am enjoying the ride. I wish you all joyful moments and good health!

Best Regards,

Angelia Mack, Your Service Coordinator & now
Owner/Operator of Ponies for Purpose

Attention: I want to thank all of you who have donated books to the library.

All newspapers are to be read in the library, not taken because many want to read them.

The library, 2nd floor, is for relaxation, reading and visiting. Any new books, etc. can be left on the table.

Thank you, Birdie King—Your Librarian
